

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A cup of a bra is composed of an air-permeable inter piece located between two cotton layers and a support pad made of highly flexible rubber is connected to a lower portion of the cup. The inter piece includes a plurality of tiny holes for 5 dispensing heat therefrom and a plurality of massaging bosses which massage the breasts and result in gaps between the cup and the breasts.